

Cookie Policy

Last updated 22 September 2026

This Cookie Policy explains how Motherland Marketing Ltd, trading as Motherland Markets ("we", "us", "our"), uses cookies and similar technologies on motherlandmarkets.com and in the Motherland Markets Telegram Mini App (together, "the site"). It should be read together with our Privacy Policy, which explains how we handle personal data. By continuing to use the site you agree to the use of cookies as described here. Where the law requires your consent for a category of cookies, we will ask for it before setting them.

What are cookies

Cookies are small text files that a website places on your computer or mobile device when you visit it. They are widely used to make websites work, to make them work more efficiently, and to provide information to the owners of the site. Cookies may be "session" cookies, which are deleted when you close your browser, or "persistent" cookies, which stay on your device until they expire or you delete them. Similar technologies, such as local storage and pixels, work in comparable ways, and this policy covers them too.

How we use cookies

We use cookies and similar technologies to make the site work, to remember your preferences, to understand how the site is used so that we can improve it, and, where you have agreed, to measure and improve our marketing.

Types of cookies we use

Strictly necessary cookies. These are essential for the site to function and cannot be switched off in our systems. They are usually set in response to actions you take, such as loading a page securely or submitting a form. You can set your browser to block them, but some parts of the site may then not work.

Functional cookies. These allow the site to remember choices you make, such as the filters you select on the economic calendar, so that you do not have to set them again on your next visit. Without them, some features may not work as intended.

Performance and analytics cookies. These help us understand how visitors use the site, for example which pages are visited most often and whether visitors encounter errors. The information is aggregated and used to improve how the site works.

Marketing cookies. These may be set through the site by our advertising partners to build a profile of your interests and to show you relevant content on other sites. They do not store directly identifiable personal information but are based on uniquely identifying your browser and device.

Third party cookies

Some cookies are set by third parties whose services appear on or are linked from the site. These include our hosting provider, Vercel; Telegram, inside which the Mini App runs; analytics and advertising providers we may use; and IC, the broker to which we introduce clients, whose sites set cookies under IC's own Cookies Policy once you follow a link to them. We do not control third party cookies, and you should check the relevant third party's own policy for more information.

How to manage cookies

You can control and delete cookies through your browser settings. Most browsers let you refuse all cookies, accept only certain cookies, or delete cookies already stored, and let you do this for one site or for all sites. Instructions are available in the help pages of Chrome, Safari, Firefox and Edge, and at www.allaboutcookies.org. If you block or delete cookies, some parts of the site may not work properly. Where we ask for your consent to non-essential cookies, you can withdraw it at any time through the same settings.

Changes to this policy

We may update this Cookie Policy from time to time to reflect changes in the cookies we use or for other operational, legal or regulatory reasons. The date at the top shows the current version. Please revisit this page regularly to stay informed.

Contact

If you have any questions about our use of cookies, email clientservices@motherlandmarkets.com.